

Organisational Design Implementation Prioritisation

Complexity could be due to factors such as industrial relations, political or external stakeholder considerations, or timing related to other large change projects such as systems roll-out